Bank of America Now Fourth In Deposits In United States

Analysis of the recent statement condition of the Bank of America shows this bank in fourth place in volume of deposits among the banks of the United States, and the largest bank outside of New York City.
 The California bank has exceeded only by the Chase National, with deposits of $1,302,456,350; the National City, with $1,214,266,592, and the Guaranty Trust, with $928,343,300. The Bank of America's combined deposits are $710,903,867.
 Since the return to California management, the bank has stepped up from fifth to fourth place.
 The California institution is also one of the largest customers of Uncle Sam in the purchase of government securities. With a total of $156,370,420 invested in government securities, Bank of America ranks second among the five largest banks in the ratio of government bonds to deposits. The current statement shows that the holdings in government securities amount to approximately 22 per cent of deposits. In the total amount of government securities held, Bank of America ranks fourth among the five major banks.
 Similarly, state, county and municipal obligations totaling $76,000,000 amount to 11 per cent of deposits, and all other bonds 3 1/2 per cent. The total cash, government securities, state, county and municipal, and other bonds, and deposits with other banks, is $333,395,915, as against total deposits of $710,903,867. This represents a ratio of approximately 47 per cent.
 Of securities composing the bond account, 60 per cent is in government bonds, 30 per cent in state, county and municipal, and 10 per cent in all others.

Doin's of th'
Flyin' Buzzard
 By DUETTE HILL

As we rode along down thru Clover Flat yesterday Buss sed he'd shure be glad to see fall come so he made up this poem as he rode along rollin' his own.
 Cowboy's Playground,
 Leaves fallin', yellow and red—
 Cowboy's playground.
 Still, except for the rustle of leaves
 And the gentle whisper of the tall pines,
 The swaying grass and golden rod
 bent low
 And growing along a rocky bank
 deep crimson sumach,
 Mixed with a little green,
 Wild turkey, coming home to roost
 There, in that old pine tree, every feather glistering.
 Still—except for their warning as a breeze
 Sends leaves clattering to earth
 around them.
 The sound of a horse's hoofs
 against the rocks
 Coming down the narrow trail, following the little creek,
 And silence, as he stops, to drink
 from a clear clean place, Cowboy's Playground! Perfect, as he watches in silence
 All the beauty of fall,
 And drinking it in to his deepest content,
 Rides on through the flat,
 The tinkle of spurs and his low
 happy whistle,
 Is his way of saying—thanks for being there and livin'
 in Cowboy's Playground.

Arrest Redondo Man Found In Cornfield

R. A. Reed, 124-B So. Guadalupe, Redondo Beach, was arraigned in the justice court Tuesday on a charge of entering the premises of George M. Green, who operates a hog farm at the west end of Torrance, and taking some ears of green corn. He was given a suspended sentence of 25 or 12 days in the county jail.
 Green stated that he has been molested by persons entering the 25-acre patch of corn which he is raising as emergency feed for his hogs, quite a number of times this summer, but until this week had not been able to apprehend the unlawful visitors. By posting a watcher on the top of a tower, authorities were able to pick up several Mexican boys who have been turned over to the juvenile court. Later Reed was arrested.

Man Goes to Jail On Liquor Charge

Frank Cartwright, 2951 Miller street, Longtin, was arraigned before Judge John Dennis in the local justice court on Friday, July 8, on charges of possession and sale of liquor to which he pleaded guilty. He was fined $50 or 25 days in jail on each charge, the sentence being suspended for one year on the possession charge. In default of payment of the fine for selling, Cartwright was committed to jail.

INTERESTING NEWS ITEM
 FOR those who are interested in the subject, it is our privilege to present the following information as representative of what Safeway and Piggly Wiggly stores mean to Southern California. Considering California fruits and vegetables only, we find that our brokers report that during the period of four months—August-December, 1930, Safeway Stores and affiliated companies purchased a grand total of 6984 cars, valued at $5,780,423.67. Bear in mind that the above figures show only the amounts purchased through brokers and do not consider larger quantities purchased direct by our outside districts.

Since 1930 the Safeway organization has expanded and increased to a degree where its local purchases would be considerably greater than the foregoing figures. Space does not permit, but if similar figures were set down in the fields of dried fruits, rice, beans, fresh meat, fish and California packed and manufactured foods, the total value of products purchased by Safeway and Piggly Wiggly stores from Southern California farmers and producers annually would represent a tremendous sum of money, all of which re-enters the trade channels of this community for the benefit of the population generally and local business conditions specifically.

INTERESTING NEWS ITEM

FROM the producer's standpoint Safeway and Piggly Wiggly stores provide an immediate cash market for the products of farm and orchard. Most food products or the materials from which foods are manufactured come from the farms. In many ways grocers are indirectly the farmer's agents, distributing his products to the consuming public. As a distributing institution Safeway and Piggly Wiggly stores are moving millions of tons of food into the hands of actual consumers. These stores are actually servants of the farmer, providing a dependable, well-regulated system of marketing farm production. From another angle Safeway and Piggly Wiggly stores are also agents of the consumer. A great purchasing organization is constantly at work combing world-wide markets to obtain food products in ample variety to provide each customer with a complete selection of the foods her table requires. In the conduct of its business this institution is contributing a solid business activity to the economic life of each community with which its operations are identified.

SAFEGWAY POLICY—Brands
 Piggly Wiggly and Safeway Stores stock and retail a full line of nationally advertised foods and popular local products. Check this advertisement for the names of your advertised favorites.

SAFEGWAY POLICY—Dairy
